

2020

CAREER EVALUATOR

Follow your Passion

Our deepest fear is not that we are inadequate.
Our deepest fear is that we are powerful beyond measure.
It is our light, not our darkness
That most frightens us.
We ask ourselves
Who am I to be brilliant, gorgeous, talented, fabulous?
Actually, who are you not to be?
~ Marianne Williamson

Welcome

Welcome to your Career Evaluator! I am so pleased to have you here and I look forward to hearing more about how your journey to a new career is progressing.

My name is Victoria and I am a Certified Professional Coach. My role is to support you in finding a career that you love and moving you forward to that goal.

I am here to be your sounding board, your motivator and your guide in developing a life you are passionate about. My deepest passion lies in supporting others to live a life they have only previously dreamed of, because there is no nobility in living a life less than you deserve. I know you were made for more, so let's work towards identifying and achieving it.

I designed this Career Evaluator for you - to help you understand your decisions about your career and to figure out if your current career really is the right thing for you. It is very common for our parents, and society at large, to influence our career choices early in life based on money and titles as the success indicators, rather than considering contribution, happiness or fulfilment and we feel obligated to do what is expected of us - go to university, get a degree, get a job, climb the career ladder over and over again and then retire. That doesn't sound like much fun does it? I don't subscribe to the belief that a career should be anything other than fun, if I have to spend a huge portion of my time doing it, it better be fun and rewarding. Right? Remember when you just wanted to be a fireman*?

This worksheet is all about you, it is confidential to you and only you decide if it should be shared with anybody else so please be as honest as possible with yourself.

I am here for you when you're ready.

All the best, Your Coach
Vicki

*I say fireman here specifically because when I was growing up, in my country, women could not be firefighters, so I wanted to be a fireman.

Evaluating your Current Career

The world is constantly changing, and we have to be fluid and move with it, especially in these exceptionally trying times. As the world continues to change and adapt around us, we realise that there are huge personal and societal changes happening everywhere. The pandemic forced many of us to work from home in roles that we were previously told were “not conducive to flexible working” or “we don’t have a work from home policy” or “we prefer visibility in the office”.

As a result of this change in working practices, what has changed for you? Have your priorities shifted? What have you tolerated until now? What parts of this new way of working would you like to keep and what parts of your old life would you like to stop doing? Do you know what you want from your career? Now is a great time to review your choices and define where you are, so that you can work out where you want to be.

Let’s begin your journey by looking at your career as it stands.

What do you like about your current career or role?

What do you dislike about your current career or role?

How do you define success?

What is your greatest achievement?

Who are you in relation to your job?

What has made you think you need a change from your current role?

What parts of your job do you enjoy and want to keep?

What do you think others would say about your career to date?

What can you learn from that?

What are the high points for each of your previous roles?

What are the lows points for each of your previous roles?

When thinking of your current career, what obstacles do you perceive may get in your way?

Who is your career hero, and why?

What beliefs do you have about your current career? e.g. Only people older than me get promoted.

What have you been tolerating in your career?

How long are you willing to let this continue?

Action: What stood out for you most during that exercise? Make some notes overleaf, are you happy where you are? What needs to change? What's next?

Now what?

Having completed all this work to define where you are in your career, I congratulate you on a job very well done. You are well on your way to finding your new career. But the journey doesn't end there, there's still so much work to do. Do you know what's next? Do you know what it is you want?

There are more steps to this journey and my programmes will take you through how to get to where you want to be. After my programmes, you'll walk away with tangible next steps to find a career you love. You'll learn tools to overcome your limiting beliefs, get reacquainted with yourself, adjust your mindset and understand how to transform your purpose into meaningful work. The key takeaways are:

- Understanding your purpose and clarifying your ideal career;
- Setting goals in the key areas of your life;
- Building an opportunity map and identifying resources to support your next steps;
- Creating a 3-6-month action plan with realistic, achievable goals.

Are you interested in working with me to achieve your goals? Here's how to get started.

Step 1: Schedule a complimentary, no-obligation consult. You can do that right here:

<https://aheadtogether.youcanbook.me>

Step 2: Check your email for some questions from me, as I'd like to know a bit about you and what you'd like to get out of coaching with me before we have our call.

Step 3: Hit "reply" to that email and answer the questions.

Step 4: At the scheduled time of your consult, we'll have our call! We'll use the opportunity to make sure we're the perfect fit before you commit.

Step 5: Then we'll get started! If you decide to work with me, I'll tell you the exact steps for getting started. If you decide not to work with me or if we aren't a perfect fit, I'm happy to share other resources to help you get what you need.

Have any questions? Email me victoria@aheadtogether.co.uk

To your am so very

Vicki

every success, I can't wait to see your achievements, I excited for you.